SIMS' SUGGESTION ACTED UPON SIX MONTHS TOO LATE

COULD HAVE HAD MILLION
MEN OVERSEAS IN 1918

Failure to Accomplish This Prolonged War, Sims Declares.

Washington, March 10.—Failure of the navy department to fully cooperate in the war during the first six months after America's entry cost half a million lives, fifteen billion dollars, 2,500,000 tons of shipping and prevented a victory over Germany by July, 1918, Rear Admiral Sims told the senate investigating committee today in presenting documentary evidence in support of his charges of delay against the department. The officer relayed to the committee recommendations he had made to the department immediately upon his arrival in London in 1917. A cablegram sent late in April 1917 said the critical area where the war would be won or lost, was in the eastern Atlantic at the focus of all lines of ocean communication to England and France.

Admiral Sims told the committee that although he repeatedly urged that every destroyer and small craft that could be sent to sea be despatched immediately to this area, his recommendation was not complied with until about six months later.

He also recommended, he said, that two divisions of the American dreadnaughts be sent to the base at Brest to guard against raids in the English channel by German cruiser forces, but this recommendation was entirely disregarded.

Failure of the department to throw the full force of the navy into the struggle, he said, resulted in the unnecessary loss of 1,500,000 tons of shipping by submarine attack in 1917 and 1,600,000 tons in 1918.

"If the tonnage lost in 1917 had been saved by the prompt cooperation of the navy," he said, "America could have had a million men in France at the beginning of 1918 instead of 300,000."

Admiral Sims said the German offensive of 1918 was due to the failure of the German submarine campaign and that in all probability it never would have been undertaken and the morale of the German people would have been more promptly despatched to France. He estimated on the basis of what happened when the American forces did arrive that that victory could have been achieved by July 1918 if the tonnage had been preserved.

HALF BILLION IN REVENUE IS LOST IN COURT FINDING

Seventy Millions Must Be Returned to Tax Payers It Is Announced.

LOSS OF 1919 AND 1920
TAXES NEARLY HALF MILLION

Tax on Stock Sales Will Affect Some of Loss to Government.

Washington, March 10.—The loss to the government as a result of the supreme court's decision declaring stock dividends not taxable as income will be nearly half a billion dollars, according to an estimate today by Commissioner of Internal Revenue Roper.

With some 4,000,000 dividend returns on the bureau's files it will take months to make an accurate estimate to the effect of the decision, Mr. Roper said, but a hasty search indicates that $70,000,000 paid in 1917 and 1918 will have to be returned while the loss on uncollected taxes in 1919 will be $100,000,000 and that for 1920 $300,000,000.

Some of this loss, the commissioner said, will be offset by the tax on stock sales. Mr. Roper emphasized that estimates of the government's loss are not official and that the loss might be found to be larger than now estimated.

SUFFRAGE FIGHT GROWING WARMER

Supporters of Amendment
May Contest Seat of Opposing Senator to Remove Him From Fight.

Charleston, W. Va., March 10.—State Senator Jesse A. Bloch, of Wheeling, completed his 3,000 mile hurried trip across the continent from California to Charleston early this morning in order to vote on the federal suffrage amendment in the senate of the West Virginia legislature.

Senate forces favoring ratification anticipated immediate action upon the amendment when it convened this afternoon, and with Senator Bloch's vote hoped to break the deadlock which has existed between pro and anti-suffrage forces since the special session of the legislature was called.

Anti-suffragists, according to their leaders' declarations last night, were still fighting to defeat ratification and there was some talk among them of contesting the seat of Senator Raymond Dodson, who is listed on the side of the suffragists. Opponents of ratification claim that Senator Dodson while representing Spencer, Roane county has his residence and business in Charleston. His supporters assert that his official residence is at Spencer.

WOMAN PREPARES BASEBALL DIAMONDS FOR TRAINING OF BIG LEAGUE CLUBS

The condition of the grounds on which the big league—and bush-league—clubs conduct their spring training has a direct bearing on the results of the training period, baseball men are agreed. Consequently the work of Mrs. Otto Wilhelm will have a direct bearing on the condition of the Red Sox and Pirate players when they depart from Hot Springs, Ark., to open the American league season.

Mrs. Wilhelm is the wife of the groundskeeper at Whittington park, where the Red Sox are training. When it was decided that Wilhelm would be unable to care for the grounds this spring and prepare them for the coming of the team Mrs. Wilhelm asked for the job and got it. She was familiar with the work, having helped her husband prepare the old Majestic field used by the Red Sox several seasons. She also laid out the diamonds in the same park which is being used by the Pirates.

KENTUCKY HOUSE VOTES SUFFRAGE TO WOMEN

Frankfort, Ky., March 10.—Women of Kentucky would be permitted to vote in the 1920 presidential election, regardless of whether the federal woman suffrage amendment is operative by them, under provisions of a bill which passed the lower house of the legislature last night. A similar bill is pending in the senate.

Representative Lazarus, Republican floor leader, is author of the house measure, which is viewed as a compromise in the fight of "state right" suffragists.

HAVE LITTLE HOPE OF AGREEMENT ON TREATY CHANGES

Ratification Fight Goes On
With Article 10 Undecided.

FACTIONS CONTINUE TO HUNT FOR COMPROMISE

Adopt Reservation Regarding Voting Power In League of Nations.

Washington, March 10.—The peace treaty ratification fight in the senate entered its final and most bitterly contested phase today, with Article X and the reservations thereto the unfinished business until disposed of.

While debates on the much disputed section of the League of Nations covenant is in progress, negotiations looking to a compromise on the Republican reservations will be continued, though both sides frankly are without much hope that an agreement will be effected. Several Republican leaders drafted a substitute reservation yesterday for which they obtained the support of 28 Democrats, but even that number is fronted to six short of the minority votes needed by the majority to ratify the treaty carrying qualifications which President Wilson has declared cut the "very heart" from the pact.

The reservation voting power in the league, declaring that the United States declines to be bound by decisions to which congress has not assented until voting power is made equal, was readopted yesterday 57 to 20. Senators favoring reservations arranged for a conference today in the office of Senator Owens of Oklahoma in an effort to expedite ratification.

A DOCTOR IN THE HOUSE FOR THIS FARMER'S FAMILY

Such is Nerv-Worth When Parents And Children Are "Off Their Feet."

An Especial Message of Comfort To The Ailing Mothers of Young Babes.

The following highly interesting praise was given to East Liverpool's Nerv-Worth druggist a few days ago. Every suffering reader, every friend of such a sufferer, should read Allen Guthrie's words at least twice, so important and convincing are they:

C. T. Larkins—We have many reasons to praise Nerv-Worth in our house, as we all have at different times taken it. After our last little girl was born the mother did not get strong as fast as she should. Her appetite was very poor and she could not rest well at night.

I got her a bottle of Nerv-Worth and she had only taken a few doses when we noticed an improvement in her condition. She took three bottles at that time. And now when any of us get "off of our feet" or feel bad we take some Nerv-Worth and get all right in a short time.

ALLEN GUTHRIE,
East Liverpool, O., R. F. D. 2.

The children also take Nerv-Worth in the Guthrie home and there are three of them.

Famous Kerker Preparation Now Handled By T. J. Evans, Newark, and P. Ullman, Granville.

W. S. McQuate, one of the best known farmers living near Hanover, had suffered with asthma for 45 years and, like grasping at a straw, started taking Kerker's Asthma and Hay Fever preparation in December and he has not had a single sign of asthma since January 2.

I have suffered with asthma for 45 years so badly that I could not lie down at night. Even sitting in a chair I often thought every breath would be my last. I tried all kinds of so-called cures. Some did me no good and others gave me only temporary relief.

I was much improved by taking the very first bottle of Kerker's Asthma and Hay Fever preparation and after taking six more of it I have not had a single sign of asthma since January 2. I can lie down and sleep all night now without being disturbed. I cannot recommend Kerker's Asthma and Hay Fever preparation too highly to any person suffering with asthma.

(Signed) W. S. McQUATE.

SHOP MEN "ELECTED" PRESIDENT OF NATION

One of the most enjoyable shop talk meetings that has been held during the entire winter's series took place at the Heide plant yesterday noon when Mr. Kline and Mr. Leidy, both employees in the factory, spoke as "candidates for the office of United States president."

Each of the candidates spoke as the special friend of the laboring man and for five minutes each labored to impress the audience why he should be elected to that office. The largest audience of the shop talks meetings was present and tried to listen to both these speakers who spoke at one time. When time was called a vote was taken and as the response was equal for both "candidates" it was announced that both had won and each of the speakers was congratulated as the winner.

This has been the first occasion that an open date was held with shop talk. Mr. Harbert, Mr. Leach and Mr. Hazlett will be the speakers on the schedule of the next three Tuesdays.

DISCUSSES BALKANS BEFORE WOMEN'S CLUB

An unusually interesting program was presented by the Fortnightly club at the home of Mrs. Forbes Wylie Tuesday evening, which opened with a talk by Mrs. A. K. Herrick on "The Balkan Question." Given without notes in clear and concise style, the subject was well handled. Mrs. E. P. Johnston gave a paper on "Mothers Pensions" in which among other facts was mentioned the difference in laws of various states—Pensions to mothers are more economical than the care of children in institutions and better for the children themselves. Mrs. William Howe closed with "Current Events," of a varied but interesting nature.

INTEREST GROWS IN BUSINESS MEN'S CLASS

Interest in the Busy Business men's gymnasium class is growing at the Y. M. C. A. Aside from the regular program of the usual medicine ball game and the calisthenic drill, two hot games of volleyball were played. The regulars of the class played against a squad from the Monday class and were trimmed in both contests by scores of 21 to 15 and 21 to 16.

There are several features about the Tuesday-Thursday class that are inviting to every business man who believes in systematic training. This class will continue until the latter part of April and a new man coming in now will not feel out of place.

BIG RED BEATS WITTENBERG FIVE

Denison Squad Comes From Behind and Defeats Visitors—Students Stage Big Celebration.

In one of the most exciting games of basketball ever played at the Denison university gymnasium Denison staged a comeback last night and beat Wittenberg 22 to 18.

After five minutes of the second half Wittenberg was leading by eight points. But there the big Red Five started and they never let up until they had victory tucked away under their belts. Rhie and Rittig proved a scoring combination which the visitors could not block and their collective work tied the score. Great excitement was felt in Granville all day Tuesday even by those not specially interested in basketball by reason of the struggle with Wittenberg last night. A packed house welcomed the warriors and a hot contest resulted in a victory for Denison—which was proclaimed by the ringing of the old college bell on the hill. Another bon fire, properly located on the central park in Broadway, was kindled and a big demonstration was held by the students who yelled and sang and marched with the enthusiasm demanded by the occasion.

NEWARK BOY LICENSED AS RADIO OPERATOR

Carl G. Howard, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Howard of South Pine street, returned to this city Monday morning from Valparaiso, Ind., where he has completed the study of wireless telegraphy and has been awarded a government first grade commercial operator's license. Mr. Howard was one of the city's first radio experimenters, having entered the field in 1924. At the opening of the war, he owned and operated a high power amateur station with a working range around 400 miles. He left the city last January and was successful in finishing the work in two months. Mr. Howard expects to remain in the city for a month or so before taking up operating duties on the Atlantic for the Marconi Wireless corporation.

MASONS TO ENTERTAIN FOR OUT-OF-TOWN MEN

Realizing that there are many Masons in this city who are members of lodges outside of Newark, and who are not in any way identified with the work of the order here, many of them unknown to the fraternity because they do not attend the lodge meetings, and being desirous of getting into closer touch with them the two Masonic lodges of Newark are arranging for a social session for the sojourning brethren in order that a closer affiliation may be brought about. It is believed that there must be at least two hundred of them in the city and the members of the lodges here want them to feel as much at home in the bodies here as though they were in their own lodge home.

SENIORS WILL PLAY LAST BASKETBALL GAME

Three members of the Newark high school basketball team will play their last game for the school Friday night, Orr, Stowell and Harlow are seniors and at the final game of the season will be seen for the last time in the school uniform.

MANY IRISH NAMES IN CUBA

Signs on Some of the Most Noted Havana Streets Reflect a Transplanted Aristocracy.

There are many curiously named streets in Havana, but perhaps the interest of the tourist is no other way so piquantly excited as when he sees the name O'Reilly attached to one of the old thoroughfares. The cognomen surely has no suggestion of Castilian origin, remarks the New York Evening Post.

Despite the name, the man for whom O'Reilly street, or to give it its Cuban title, Calle O'Reilly, is called, was a Spanish subject bearing the title of count, and he was one of the first of the long line of captains general who ruled Cuba for a period of 80 years. His ancestors left their native hearth after the battle of the Boyne, migrating to Spain, where they were ennobled for services to the crown.

Although an aristocrat, the first O'Reilly was not averse to becoming a moneymaker. He engaged in the not very poetic monopoly of delivering beef from the slaughter houses to the various markets, which monopoly was handed down for several generations from father to son.

O'Donnell is another Irish name inscribed on street signs and it is written in great letters on the light house of Moro castle, which light house O'Donnell was instrumental in building. O'Farrell is an Irish-Spanish name connected with the governmental and commercial life of Cuba of the past, as is also that of O'Lawlor. These men had titled prefixes which were bestowed because of military or civil service, or which they bought outright after the custom of the time.

HEARD OWN BURIAL SERVICE

Dying Millionaire Had What Might Be Called a "Rehearsal" in His Bedroom.

When Mr. Parker Mason, a shrewd and level-headed millionaire of the United States, was on the point of dying a few years ago he conceived the quaint idea of having a rehearsal of his own funeral service in his bedroom. He called in a Presbyterian minister, and a few members of the church choir, and the full service was rehearsed in his presence and that of his family and a number of his friends. The clergyman preached an eloquent and touching sermon on the virtues and charities of the dying man, and the choir sang appropriate hymns. At the conclusion of the service, which the millionaire had followed with the closest interest and attention, he warmly complimented both clergyman and choir on their performance, and after dismissing them sent for an undertaker and made the necessary arrangements with him and had a personal interview with the pall-bearers. He died ten hours later, and was buried with the same service to which he had listened when alive.—Montreal Herald.

Where the Fault Lay

As the Irish police recruit strolled along on his first turn of night duty, loud yells of "Fire" rent the air. He bolted quickly to the spot, and found a house well alight, with a man half hanging out of an upstairs window.

"Help! Help!" he yelled. "If I jump, will you catch me?"

"Sure, an' Oi will!" replied the policeman readily.

So the man jumped, only to crash to the ground and lie there stunned. When, a few minutes later, he recovered consciousness, he looked up at the constable reproachfully, and murmured feebly:

"I thought you said you could catch me?"

"Begorra!" replied the Irishman. "Oi was only waiting for yez to bounce, an' Oi'd have had yez!"—London Answers.

Egyptian Women Prospering

The fellahs of Egypt, for centuries the most ignorant and improvident of serfs, has ridden into prosperity on the tidal wave of reconstruction, and with him his long-suffering wife. Still, as in the days of Christ, one may see him on his donkey, while his wife, with her heavy burden on her head, trudges behind. Yet there is a real, if invisible change in their relations.

Through the sudden rise in the price of cotton from $20 to $100 a kantar since the beginning of the war, the housewife has been enabled to make long-neglected purchases and has been enabled to display her native shrewdness in bargaining and financial matters. It is she who markets all the products of the farm.

Guns on Airplanes

One of the inventions of the great war was the art of shooting a machine gun through the propeller of an airplane without danger of hitting the propeller blades. The French aviator, Roland Garros, was reported to be the first man to employ this device, which was used by hundreds of air fighters throughout the war. Before that time the machine gun was mounted above the aviator so as to fire over the propeller blades. Machine guns may also be mounted in a revolving turret or in the rear of the airplane. The Browning machine gun will fire 20,000 shots at the rate of 600 per minute.

Pottery-Making Simplified

An inventor has patented an electrically driven machine which makes the rough clay boxes in which pottery is subjected to heat in kilns, work heretofore done slowly by hand.

Feathers are believed to have evolved from the reptilian scale.

The Chance that the Army Offers YOU

"As a corporal I was drawing down $38.10 a month every time the bugles blew 'Pay Day'.

"And when I read in the papers about the big civilian pay envelopes, civil life opportunities looked pretty good to me!

"I took up my old job when I got back and when then they raised my pay to $35.00 a week—almost as much as I got every month in the Army—well, I thought I was sitting on the world.

"But times have certainly changed! Thirty-five a week today goes like a breeze. Food has advanced, shoes cost more, and every time I buy a suit I think I'm paying for the war as well as fighting it!

"I'm classed, I guess, as just an unskilled worker, I left school too early and I'm sorry for it now.

"And where'll I be ten years from now? Answer me that! Working for day wages, making a living and nothing more? I guess not—for I'm going back to join the Army!

"I'm going to take a job that will give me more free cash than I get today—a job that'll mean all my expenses paid—a training that will make me the kind of man who succeeds and a life that'll keep me feeling fit and fine."

Health, Travel and Training

Congress has appropriated $2,000,000.00 to be used in the Army Schools. In many schools and posts you will have the opportunity of being trained in the skilled trades and at practically all Army stations, schools are in operation in which you can improve your education.

You'll have enough out-door work to keep you in perfect trim. You'll learn the sort of discipline that makes a man able to handle other men. You'll have a fine crowd of buddies. You'll live a fine healthy life—no soft snap about it, but it will be a life that will make you a regular man.

You'll learn how to hold up your end in any company. You'll have an increased ability—a sure self-confidence on your return.

You'll be a part of America—one of its fighting men—its bulwarks of defense. If there's any trouble that the Army has to settle you'll have a red-blooded man's chance to do your share of the settling.

And three years from now, when the men who are working besides you now are still working for day wages, you will step out with a training that will command real money.

Think it over. The next three years, at home; and no further, along at the end.

Or the next three years in the Army, and a training that you can cash in on for the rest of your life. It's worth investigating, isn't it? Worth stopping in at the recruiting office to talk to the man in charge.

THE RAILROADS.

The return of the railroads to the control of their owners pleases the great majority of the people. The managements, however, must be remembered that they are on trial. There were many abuses under private control before. The officials must do their best to give good service, to give shippers and the traveling public all reasonable accommodation.

They can not make good only by manifesting a sincere desire to please, and by great persistence and diligence in attending to all complaints.

The big problem is whether the railroads can get the money to improve their facilities. Several billions should be at once invested in railroad improvements.

The president of the Minnesota highway association, says the wheat growers of that state alone lost $51,811,500 by the lack of sufficient cars to move the last wheat crop.

Practically all the people who have invested in railroad securities during the past 10 years, have lost money heavily on them, due to the fact that their earnings were limited by government, while their expenses increased without limit.

Before putting any more money into railroad securities, investors want to feel sure that the public will permit them a fair dividend. There are of course objections to the idea of guaranteed dividends. But if the government had limited the earnings the roads could make, and at the same time given no protection against losses, any man would be a fool to put money into railroad bonds or stocks. Such a policy would have made private operation a failure from the first day, because the money for improvements could never have been raised.

A policy of absolute honesty and of earnest work for good service on the part of the management, will do much to place railroad operation on a better basis.

THE BURDENED COURTS.

The suit to dissolve the United States Steel Corporation was entered in the New Jersey courts in 1911. It was temporarily set aside two years ago, on account of the war. A final decision a few days ago was rendered. Had there been no interruption, the decree could not have come in much less than eight years from the time the suit started.

It would help straighten out the tangled business situation, if such litigation, which must more or less upset corporate affairs, could be closed up with less delay. Also prompt decisions would facilitate the consideration of new economic legislation.

The courts can not be blamed for the delay, as they are overburdened with work. Too many suits of minor importance are sent up to the higher courts.

The United States courts should have a sufficient number of judges so that these suits so vitally affecting economic progress, shall be put through promptly.

Many people would say, when a case is of such great importance that it is sure to go to the U. S. Supreme Court, that delay should not be created by putting it through the lower courts. Yet the higher courts may feel they can give a better verdict if the issues are first thoroughly debated by a lower tribunal.

Not if there are cases that start in a state court, then go on to the lower federal courts, and then to the U. S. Supreme Court, it would seem that the route of justice is too long and should be shortened.

Justice in great national issues like the steel suit depends upon the U. S. Supreme Court, the time of which should be kept free from fundamental issues. It is a wonderful judicial body, with a marvelous record for decisions based on common sense as well as law. But it is hampered by the burden of too much work.

OWEN EAGAN.

(Cleveland Plain Dealer)
Owen Eagan dropped dead of acute indigestion on a crowded New York street. And this was odd, because no one who knew Owen Eagan believed that he would die a natural death. The life insurance companies were thoroughly convinced of the undesirability of Mr. Eagan as a "risk."

It was the work of Owen Eagan to open all the bombs and internal machines rounded up by the police and federal agents in the metropolis. For twenty-five years he had been at this thrilling business. He had opened more than 7,000 bombs. Twice he had been blown up. He enjoyed his work, and had an uncanny knack of getting at the stuffing of a deadly contrivance. He was one of New York's best known citizens, and his name was familiar throughout the country.

It was, doubtless, generally believed that Inspector Eagan was a high-priced expert employed by the New York police department. He was not in any way connected with the police department. He was an inspector in the fire department, and although he had the sounding title of "head of the bureau of combustibles" his salary, until three years ago, was $1,500 a year. At the time of his death he was commanding a stipend of $1,800.

Owen Eagan's business was to save lives by risking his own. He must have liked the work. Surely he was attracted by the remuneration. Such a man falls not so far short of the heroic.

Some people claim that they should be elected to public office for the reason that they are unable to support themselves in any other way.

BUELAH.
The Beautiful Blonde Button-Maker. (By Willie Gett.)
Chapter XVII.
Oh! Mean and fawning Blotz, your deeds of crime. Reflect dishonor on my gentle rhyme. When she realized that her life depended upon one golden curl, Buelah bit her lip in helpless indignation, her lovely blue eyes gleamed on the knife of the beast touring above her, ready to sever the frail curl. Pitiously Buelah begged for her life.
"Marry me and I will spare your wretched life," snarled the fiend.
"Never—but I am too young to die," pleaded Buelah, her nerves of steel near the breaking point.
"You'll never die younger," howled Blotz, slashing his knife thru several strands of Buelah's curl.
"Do your worst, you brute," shrieked Buelah.
Thousands of feet below, Harold had witnessed this entire scene, and realizing the danger his sweet bride-to-be was in, he jumped from his motorcicle and dashed up the precipice, by a roundabout way, to avoid suspicion. Nearer and nearer crept our hero. Just ten feet away, the villain, unable to reach a promise from Buelah's lips, discharged the knife for the last slash that was destined to sever the few remaining strands of her hair.

With a leap, our hero cleared the distance between him and the enraged bully. Thus surprised, the butcher glanced over his shoulder and beheld Harold, his face stern and set. Had it not been for this interruption, all would have been lost, but the butcher now staggered drunkenly, and, stepping on a banana peel, the cruel spy, with a blood-curdling scream, disappeared over the precipice.

With a cry of triumph, our hero approached his suspended sweetheart, his eyes brimming with love, only to see his beautiful Buelah hanging by one frail hair.

Did You Know
That the invention of parodies is commonly ascribed to the Greeks? The first parodist, according to Aristotle, was Hegemon of Thasos, who flourished during the Peloponnesian war. From the fragments that are extant it is to be inferred that Homer was the favorite subject of parody. Among the Romans, parody is first met with in the period of the decline. Nero, with all his power, was not able to prevent his verses from being parodied by Perseus.

LITTLE TALKS ON THRIFT

By S. W. STRAUS, President American Society for Thrift.

There is much talk these days of the "Own Your Own Home Movement." Often we hear persons say that it is impossible to own a home in these times of high prices and profiteering. It is possible, however, to own your own home, simply by practicing a little sound thrift and this with-out depriving yourself or your family of any of the necessities of life.

Thrifty, ambitious men grow tired of paying rent. They feel that it is not good business to keep paying the landlord when it is possible to own homes and pay rent to themselves.

Most homes are built on credit, and therefore, in order to obtain credit it is necessary to have collateral, and the first step in obtaining this collateral is to start and save and to place these savings with a reliable financial institution that makes a business of lending money for the building of homes. All that these lenders of money demand is proof of your sincerity and honesty.

It is quite a simple matter to prove sincerity and honesty. Any man or woman who practices thrift is bound to be sincere and honest. Dishonesty and insincerity is bred principally among the ne'er-do-wells, those who go through life following the line of least resistance. The sincere man always has an incentive in view. If he has a family to support his first thought is of them. He wishes to provide for their future. The first thing a sincere man does after marriage is to take out a life insurance policy, thus protecting his wife and family from privation after he has passed away. Then he begins to think about owning his own home and with this end in view he begins to practice thrift. No matter how little or how much money he earns he makes it a rule to set aside a certain portion of his income every week. He is a foe to extravagance, but he is not miserly. He sees to it that his family has all the necessities of life and that they live in comfort.

This is the type of man most needed in America today. If more men were thrifty there would be less talk about profiteering landlords, for a man who owns his own home is independent and does not have to worry for fear he cannot meet his obligations when rent day comes around.

The "Own Your Own Home Movement" can be made a reality in this country, if only we practice the fundamentals of thrift. And in saving money to buy a home it should be remembered that it is not necessary to deprive ourselves of any of the necessities of life. We can all live comfortably and well and yet save sufficient money to not only buy us a home but to take care of us after our earning power has waned.

Married Strangers

A powerful story dealing with a problem being worked out in thousands of American homes to-day—that of the husband and wife who find they grow apart while the man was off to war.

XCIII.—A Frank Conversation.

"Lester, I've been thinking," began Keitha suddenly at luncheon. "You don't mean it," commented Bennett with mock impressiveness. "Take my advice and don't do it. It's a bad habit—like a shot in the arm."

"When you've finished teasing," smiled Keitha, "I'd like to tell you what I've been thinking about."

"Don't! Spare me until I finish this really excellent meal. I have a definite hunch that it's something disagreeable and that it concerns me."

"Exhaust!" chided Keitha. "Do you think a girl can have no other thought but you?"

"Not when I'm around," he returned coolly. "Keitha shook her head despairingly. 'You ARE abominably conceited. What made you so?'"

"Women," he admitted with a grin. "You're the first one that never liked me."

Keitha flushed. "How absurd! Of course I like you."

"But Lord, how you disapprove of me!"

"An I, the only person who disapproves of you?" Keitha asked demurely. "Not lately," he acknowledged. "Lester used to be a great boy in his own home town, and then he fell from grace. But he thought the war would restore the old footing. It didn't. He added briefly:

"Your mother adores you," suggested Keitha.

"Oh the Mater," he shrugged his shoulders. "The Mater adores me when some one a rung higher in the social ladder has an unattractive daughter who would be flattered by my attentions. Get me?"

"Had hard you are," protested Keitha. "No, child, only honest. I don't sugarcoat everything with the 'glad' stuff as you do. Take Anita now, she likes me more than anyone else, but Dad threw me down hard once, and curiously enough, it's he and not I, who cherishes the memory of it."

"I thought you and your father had renewed friendly relations."

"Oh, we have—but it's a watchful armistice. When I so much as flirted with Betty Arnold, Dad was for calling off the truce."

"Keitha's mind, spinning to Betty Arnold and the house party and Marcia Holmes, returned to her original thought."

"What I was going to say when we got off on this conversational tangent was: why did Mr. Forrester say that her fiancé was a captain? I understood that Tasker Holmes was a lieutenant."

Bennett grinned. "So he was—except on leave in Paris."

What's an extra shoulder bar when you're calling on your fiancé? "How beastly of him!" cried Keitha. "Was there nothing to which he would not stoop?"

"Don't be too hard on him, Keitha," urged Bennett with a man's quick defense for an erring member of his sex. "Remember, he was supposed to be in love."

"Yes, with a lovely wife back here in the States," scoffed Keitha. "Let's go up on deck, if you've finished. It is so stuffy here."

Scarcely had Bennett ensconced her in a steamer chair when Mr. Copley-Warner and two companions came along and hailed her.

Keitha presented Bennett, who greeted them stiffly.

"You seem to know every male on shipboard," he muttered as he bent to wrap the rug around her feet. "I have to compliment you on being a swift worker."

In Loving Memory.
Of our dearly beloved Mother Mrs. Anna Eaton who died March 10, 1919 and Father who died March 16, 1919: Gone dear parents but not forgotten. How we miss your smiling faces. But left us to remember. None on earth can fill your places. A happy home we once enjoyed. How sweet the memory clings— But death has left us a loneliness. Which the world can never fill. Sadly missed by their children John Eaton, Anna Eaton and Mrs. Orville Westbrook. 2-10-11x

In Memoriam.
In memory of Rose Samuels, wife of I. A. Samuels. Just one year ago today we buried our beloved wife, dear companion in the beautiful Jewish cemetery at Indianapolis amidst relatives and friends who had gone before her. If for each good, kind deed done on earth she had received but one small bud, her grave would now be a tower of roses. A kind affectionate wife, a loving and devoted mother, a good neighbor, a true friend. None knew her but to love her, none but to sing her praise. Goodbye dear wife and mother until we meet again.

AMUSEMENTS

AUDITORIUM

"Pollyanna"

"Pollyanna," the delightful character of book and stage, is delighting large crowds at the Auditorium with Mary Heford in the title role, and from both a humorous and sentimental viewpoint, it was an absolute triumph, for it carried with it a really cheerful philosophy of sunshine and gladness.

The production recently scored unprecedented success in all of the largest cities in the United States and will be seen at the Auditorium for the balance of the week.

"Pollyanna" has rightfully been comedy, is a shave satire on the business methods of some of Fifth avenue's fashionable modistes and couturiers, whose witty lines are as natural to the lovely Kitty's artistic finesse, as are her gowns, to her own avowed lines. En-Passant, those gowns are going to prove a revelation. They are the dernier-crit of the modistes' stellers.

The music, too, by Paul Lannin, Broadway's latest musical find, is decidedly above the ordinary, to which Miss Gordon, her charming mezzo-soprano, rested and refreshed by her sojourn in the movies, does more than justice.

blackmailing her for funds to meet his gambling debts.

We learn that Kristine does not know that Lilla was also Helsing's victim who, in his desperation, is even then trying to ensnare a mere girl, Marie Meyer, daughter of a Jewish business associate of Olrik. The villain plays his cards well enough with women whatever may be his luck at roulette with men. He holds incriminating letters from Lilla and when Olrik in the handling of Kristine's estate, comes upon traces of Helsing's blackmail, the poor woman, unable to face exposure, commits suicide.—St. Louis Globe Democrat.

Mme. Kalich comes to the Auditorium on Friday, March 19th.

The Flame of the Yukon

A re-issue, but a dandy is the Triangle "The Flame of the Yukon" which comes to the Auditorium on Sunday next. The drama and the tragedy of the rush for gold in Alaska is depicted in this photoplay and Dorothy Dalton is the star. The time of the play is in the days of '98 when the gold and silver seekers uncovered the wealth of the frozen north, when there was no law of God or man in the camps and where a man's quickness "on the draw" decided the question of whether he would live to get back to the states with his fortune. Miss Dalton as "The Flame" has a role that is said by many to be the best she has ever played.

ALHAMBRA

"String Beans"

Toby Watkins is the all-around drudge on his uncle's farm—a twenty acre patch of black mud entirely surrounded by mortgages. This is the opening sentence from Julien Josephson's second, "String Beans," which serves to introduce Charles Ray in his next Paramount Picture which will be shown at the Alhambra today and tomorrow. In highly condensed form it presents a vivid picture of the story's opening scenes.

Toby Watkins is the sort of country boy, brave, humorous and thoroughly human, that all Charles Ray's admirers like to see him portray. It is the sort of character that has made the Ray pictures sure-fire offerings from the exhibitor's point of view. But Toby Watkins is no ordinary boy. He is imaginative and somewhat dreamy, and every night when his day's work is done he goes to his room and takes out a book that he has bought by mail, "What Every Young Man Ought to Know." For Toby is ambitious to be a writer.

The scenes of the story change to a country newspaper office where Toby goes in search of opportunity. This part of the story is developed with realism and charm by the author, Julien Josephson, who was formerly a country editor himself, and who writes of that life with delightful sympathy.

Will Rogers speaks of prohibition. Will Rogers, the wit of the Follies and the Midnight Frolics, takes some of the funniest material from the popular and the topical in his Goldwyn Picture "Water, Water Everywhere," which comes to Alhambra theater, for two days commencing Friday.

This is a picture that will give laughs to both "wets" and "drys."

Among some of Mr. Rogers' sayings are:

"When you don't care particular for what you're drinking you like to look at something good over the top of your glass."

"Who wants to drink thirty-seven bottles to be a hundred per cent drunk?"

"When Noah took two of every kind of animal into the Ark, he never read of him taking a prohibitionist and his mate, did you?"

"No man has ever quit after he was married."

"There may be as good fish in the sea as ever was caught, but you've made a damn dry entry to fish in."

"The man who says he can take it or leave it alone, sure knows how to take it."

"There remains one thing more dangerous to man than whiskey—women."

—GEM—

Sidney Carton and Charles Darnay, in the novel "A Tale of Two Cities," were two entirely different persons. In the magnificent motion picture version which Wm. Fox will present at the Gem today, William Farnum, the eminent film star, plays both parts.

"It's the hardest characterization I have undertaken yet," said Mr. Farnum. "I am used to playing a character by throwing myself into his mold, but in playing two parts I have to be constantly changing mood, always ready to throw myself into either of the roles. And, believe me, it is no easy task."

GRAND.

One has opportunity of visiting a gambling house, with no danger of being "pinched" if he sees "Beckoning Roads," the Robertson-Cole feature with Bessie Barriscale, which is showing last times today at the Grand. The action of this picture, which was made in the Barriscale Studios, requires that the heroine, Marquita Shap (played by Miss Barriscale) go to a New York gambling house which is one of the enterprises of her employer, Baron Brinker, a Wall Street swindler.

An elaborate set was made to show the interior of the gambling house. Its walls are in soft gray, and upon them were decorations picturing dragons, painted on by hand.

The added attraction is Gale Henry in a two part comedy, "Home Talent."

"A Scream in the Night," characterized by film critics as a photodramatic sensation, comes to the Grand theater tomorrow and Friday.

The story, written by Charles A. Love, is based on Darwin's theory that man is evolved from monkey and through a group of unique and ultra-dramatic characters raises the question: Is Darwin right?

The principal character is Darwa, a creature brought up in the jungles to be a scientist's experiment by which he will not only prove the authenticity of the Darwinian theory but gain immortality for himself as well.

Added, Billy West in "Bone Dry."

To prevent workers in crushing plants inhaling small particles of stone a gauze mask has been invented that is worn like spectacles.

MME. BERTHA KALICH IN "THE RIDDLE: WOMAN" named the "Glad" picture, and it lives up to its name, carrying across the screen the radiant message of "gladness" as the true secret of human joy.

The crowded audience that welcomed the picture last evening was a most responsive one and enthusiastically expressed its appreciation of the skillfully produced picture of a wholesome and simple story, in which tenderness and romance were hand in hand with laughter and joy, as Pollyanna taught folks to be "glad."

Pollyanna is an adorable girl who spreads joy and hopefulness everywhere, believing that there is something to be glad for, for everyone, if he keeps hunting for it. That is the spirit of this wonderful production.

There is no more lovable and fascinating figure in pictures than the joyous girl who comes into the crabbed community to strengthen everybody by playing the "Glad Game," and whose career in the picture extends from the winnipeg period to radiant maidenhood of 17 in chignon.

"Pollyanna" is a joyous blend of humor and sentiment and with very human romance for its basis, and essentially for mature enjoyment and understanding. It involves no purple paste, vexed sex problems or morbid themes. It comes opportunely when there is quite too much thought of sorrow and suffering in the world and people welcome bright, joyous enjoyment when seeking motion pictures for diversion.

An extra added feature today is Billy West in the comedy, "The Strike Breaker."

Kitty Gordon's Back.

The announcement made by Melville Alexander, that Kitty Gordon's back in musical comedy, back, voice, vibrant personality, everything, is now being revealed to the world, is a welcome to the International Beauty's host of admirers.

"Lady Kitty, Inc." her new musical

Adapting herself to business methods, now that she's a business woman for the nonce, Miss Gordon has surrounded herself with the very best talent procurable. Her staff includes "Joy-Boy," Jack Wilson, whose (according to authority) jazz never fails to give the razz to the glooms; Donald MacDonald, one of Broadway's pet juveniles and a regular fellow withal; Fay Marbe, whose forte is portraying passionate personalities; John Wilmuth Merkyl, equally at home singing tenor leads or playing leads in the movies; Harry Short, the long, lean, lanky, laugh-maker; Charles Hammond, Helen Clark, Vera Beresford, Barrett Carman and Lillian's of lovely, lissome lassies.

The Newark engagement is next Monday night. The Auditorium is the theater. Mail orders are now being received, with seats being placed on sale next Friday at 10 a. m.

Bertha Kalich.

After long absence from the stage in St. Louis Mme. Bertha Kalich returned to the Shubert-Jefferson theater last night in "The Riddle: Woman," a Danish play by C. Jacobi, arranged for audiences in America by Charlotte E. Wells and Dorothy Donnelly.

The story concerns two sisters, Lilla and Karen de Gravet, who, reduced to poverty by an unworthy father, resolve to die in the sea together. They are rescued by Count Erik Helsing, who afterwards marries the elder sister. In time she weds Lars Olrik, whose fortune as a shipowner prospers until he becomes one of the richest men in his part of the world. Karen makes her home with the Olriks and the story opens in their sumptuously appointed mansion. Olrik's first part, Mrs. Jepperson, left a daughter, Kristine, in Olrik's care and he is custodian of her big fortune. Kristine visits Lilla and tells how she became the victim of Helsing and how he has been

SCORES OF PEOPLE HAVE FOUND TRUTONA UNFAILING AS PREVENTIVE OF "FLU"

"This Medicine Saved Me From Having Influenza," Mrs. Sears Declares—Many Similar Statements Furnish Unquestionable Proof.

Since reaching the definite conclusion that as yet no cure for influenza has been found, health authorities are practically unanimous in their opinion that PREVENTION is the one best means for stamping out the dreaded disease.

As to the best means of insuring effective prevention the answer is to be found in Surgeon General Blue's recent statement in which he says, "It is important that the body be kept strong and able to fight off disease germs." Public statements from scores of people have proven that there is no better agency for providing body strength and vitality to withstand attacks of disease than Trutona. Many will remember the remarkable work done by Trutona last year when, in innumerable cases, serious after-effects of influenza were quickly overcome by the perfect tonic. In only a slightly lesser measure has Trutona been declared to have prevented attacks of the malady.

One of the Many Cases. Mrs. Josephine Sears, 2803 Portland avenue, Louisville, after gratefully describing the many remarkable benefits she gained from Trutona, says: "I really believe this medicine saved me from having influenza."

There are scores of other similar statements, too numerous to mention, and they prove conclusively that Trutona is truly a remarkable agency for the prevention of influenza as well as an unequalled reconstructive tonic for overcoming bad after-effects of the disease. Trutona's healthful action reaches every portion of the body. Performing its work faithfully and efficiently, Trutona rebuilds diseased nerves and tissues, creates a healthy appetite and assists in digestion and assimilation of food, the results of which are invariably to be seen in the ruddy cheeks and sparkling eyes of those who have taken the perfect tonic.

Don't take a chance—take Trutona. Trutona is sold in Newark at W. A. Erman's Drug store.—Adv. 2-25-wed-31

FROCKS OF COTTON

Fabric Promises to Supplant the More Expensive Materials.

Beautifully Figured Voiles Rival Flow-ered Silk Georgettes; Swiss and Organdies Are Good.

And now the word comes from Paris that skirts are to be slightly longer, no fuller but with an additional length of an inch or so, it is said. At this rate the American woman will have hard work to keep her skirt length regulated to suit the whims of Paris. Fortunately the distance of the bottom of the skirt from the floor is not such an important matter after all, the woman of good taste wearing them at whatever length is most becoming to her.

Next season will probably be one of cotton, as silk has advanced so in price that it is almost out of reach. This fabric, which in its raw state is sold by the pound, used to be wholesale in pre-war days at $3.50 to $4.50 a pound. Now the same quantity brings $20.

Of course, if cotton, which is already high enough in price, is featured as the correct material for summer frocks, some horrid weevil in all probability will attack the cotton boll, and the cost of thin-material will advance also. As it is, beautifully figured voiles are offered which rival the flowered silk georgettes. Dotted swiss, it is said, will also be good as well as plain and figured organdies.

A new style blouse is shown by some of the shops which has caused quite a good deal of comment as to whether it is a frock or a waist. It is in one piece and falls to the bottom of the skirt, its beauty lying in the material employed in its development and the embroidery with which it is trimmed. The long-ago waist of Irish crochet has been revived this season. It is usually fashioned in the short peplum style.

In neckwear lace plays an important part. Irish crochet, tinted or in white, filet and Carrickmacross, also an applied design on a background of net are much used for collars, are round, square, and rolling and are shown attached to little vestees.

BREATH OF SUMMER IN THIS

A creation that makes us realize that soon the mild weather will be with us, and we'll see lots of pretty misses attired in printed blue chiffon over tan georgette for it bids to become popular again.

JERSEY CLOTH FOR BLOUSES

Slip-Over With Peplum Said to Suit Hold Prominent Place; Silks Desirable.

Jersey cloth in silk, in one of the weaves that go by various names, is used increasingly for blouses. In spite of everything that has been predicted, the slip-over blouse, with a peplum, is still the smartest vogue. To be sure, some of the very smart new blouses reach only to the waist-line, but the peplum is the rule. And it is in these blouses that jersey in silk weaves is especially desirable. For it has body enough and at the same time suppleness enough to hang well around the hips. It is often elaborately embroidered, sometimes heavily braided in soutache, sometimes worked in machine-stitchery with colored wool in a way that adds distinction to many of the new blouses.

New Coiffure. The quaint and the unusual are appearing in the new hair dressings. Besides the bobbed hair the contours are showing an adaptation of the Grecian knot. With the bobbed hair, we have a covering of the ears, but the latest tendency is to let the lower tip of the ear lobe show below a soft roll of waved tresses. The Spanish style headress has entered the field, and the open filigree of a high backed comb now makes the dividing line between a smoothly brushed head and a large, loose knot in many fashionable headresses for the evening.

Switzerland produces no good coal.

NEW SPRING-SUMMER FROCKS

This is a very beautiful frock of peach-colored taffeta and lace with bouffant effect at hip, and ever popular short-sleeve length. It is regarded as just the thing for spring and even early summer.

PROMISE SEASON OF CHECKS

Traveling Coats, Suits and Frocks Will Be Made of Shepherd's Plaids.

Be prepared for a season of checks. Scotch and shepherd's plaids have come from the big manufacturers.

One prominent dressmaker, says a writer in the Philadelphia Record, has designed a quantity of new wool materials, from the thickest to the thinnest, for traveling coats, tailormades, or whole dresses. The Scotch tartan appears to have had an effect upon these designers of new materials. They are mostly varieties of very bright colored striped materials—red, green, blue or yellow on a black, navy blue or dark green ground.

One does not see all these stripes together, but in series of two, as, for instance, the Scotch diabure with two stripes more prominent than the others. Or in three, as the bright-colored bouclé with big checks, though not so big as those on the diabure pique, where the five stripes imitate machine stitching in one shade, nor those squares in the robes with green and blue ground crossed with red and green stripes.

The largest size checks are seen on the buravella in a single shade standing out from the self color.

All the materials are thick and mostly for coats, coat dresses or tailormades. For lighter frocks moufla is more suitable.

NEW FASHIONS FOR CHILDREN

Spring Modes to Feature Tunic and Eton Effects, According to Announcements.

Tunic and eton effects are to be much featured next spring, and it is announced for the benefit of mothers who do their family sewing early in the year that striking plaid patterns are to be much featured in the gingham, comparatively few plain checks being shown.

Cotton crepe will also be very popular for wash dresses for little girls, and it is available in an amazingly attractive collection of colors. Some are straight and of chemise type and smock frocks, combining a skirt and slip-over smock, are to be featured also. Collars and cuffs of white pique on plain gingham dresses will be smart and fashionable, and as they may be made detachable the plan is an excellent one.

Nearly every little frock shown is equipped with at least one pocket, but two is the usual arrangement. Colored organdies are to be popular and both plain and figured cotton voiles are shown in the spring and summer styles outlined for children.

CARTRIDGE CLOTH NEW GOODS

Material Created by War to Be Transformed to Make Suitable for Making Women's Gowns.

Cartridge cloth, a new material created by the war, is being transformed by war department experts into attractive goods for women's wear. Samples of the material, made up in women's blouses of fetching design, are being offered for sale in New York stores to see how readily takes to it. The cloth is a rough all-silk product, somewhat resembling burip, and was used in the making of small bags for holding heavy artillery explosive charges. When the war ended large quantities of the material was on hand and to make the goods salable the army experts devised a means of boiling out the gummy substance which gave it the coarse appearance. It was then dyed or printed until the finished product presented a material which the experts believe the women will like.

EARLY HAT MODES

Crowns Both High and Low; Brims Are of All Widths.

Premature Display of Headgear Constitutes Trying Out Process for the Different Styles.

Millinery shops are putting forth hats of summery aspect—and numbers are being bought by southward bound folk and stay-at-homes as well. This premature display for the spring and summer constitutes a trying out process for the different styles which the milliners see fit to launch at this time of year.

The unusual shapes which are becoming to the few take their proper place, and the shapes which are predestined to extinction on account of their absolute hopelessness on any woman are cast into the discard.

As the procession passes the prudent woman who gets the last minute of wear out of her winter hat and does not put on her new hat until spring has really arrived can, if she has good judgment, make her choice of spring millinery before purchasing. She can do a sort of mental trying on which will save her from making mistakes in the hurry and confusion of the actual buying.

There is an unusual variety of models for the early showing. There are turbans high and low, flaring and narrow; tall crowned, broad-brimmed hats; shapes flaring up at the front, at the back, or at the sides; pokes and tricornes. Somewhat newer and smarter than the hat with its brim turned up at the front is the model turned up sharply at both front and back.

One model of this type showed the crown covered with heavy flowers and straw brim in matching henna shade. Another model on these same lines had a crown of satin of the new brown tint. The straw brim was of a shade to match. The brim was folded back at the sides and trimmed with a large yellow-toned rose.

Henna, by the way, is one of the favored shades in spring millinery. One lovely large broad-brimmed mushroom shape showed a crown and upper part of brim in henna red straw with facing in oyster white or bordering on light tan—just off white. The smart medium-sized crown was encircled by a henna-colored fancy feather or aigrette.

PRETTY RUSTIC FLOWER VASE

Small Log of Wood May Be Converted Into Attractive Decoration for the Home.

A quaint and pretty little rustic flower vase can be made from a small log of wood. The bark should be left in its natural condition, and one end of the log hollowed out with a gouge and a hammer until a sufficient space has been cut away to admit of inserting a small glass bowl or basin, in which the flowers may be arranged.

Rustic Flower Center.

The edge of the bowl should be level with the edge of the wood, and therefore not visible when filled with flowers.

The exterior of the stand can be treated in two ways. It can be just varnished and left to dry, or it can be covered with gold paint.

Stands of this kind look very pretty, too, with little ferns planted in them, and when used for that purpose no bowl or basin is, of course, required.

The mat upon which the stand sketched was placed is of a simple and useful type to make for this purpose, and it was carried out in pale green velvet and lined with satin. It is diamond shape, and trimmed at the edges with lace.

FASHIONS IN BRIEF

Bright copper chiffon cloth is used for negligees. Patent leather applique work is seen on navy serge.

Satin skirts are richly laced with Chantilly lace. Flounced dance frocks are charming for young girls.

More silk spats in black or brown are shown for the shopper who likes a change from the heavier cloth ones of tan or gray.

Among the interesting sport suits being brought out for next season, some with mildly blouses or slip-over jackets are especially smart.

Very wide ribbons are used for girdles and sashes for the eton or bolero jacket suits, either self-color, a plain vivid shade or a gay plaid ribbon being chosen.

Java has complete religious liberty.

DOCTOR TELLS HOW TO DETECT HARMFUL EFFECTS OF TOBACCO TRY THESE SIMPLE TESTS

New York: Doctor Connor, formerly of Johns Hopkins hospital, says: Many men who smoke, chew or snuff incessantly and who are seemingly healthy are suffering from progressive organic ailments. Thousands of them would never have been afflicted had it not been for the use of tobacco, and thousands would soon get well if they would only stop the use of tobacco. The chief habit forming principle of tobacco is nicotine, a deadly poison which, when absorbed by the system slowly affects the nerves, membranes, tissues and vital organs of the body. The harmful effect of tobacco varies and depends on circumstances. One will be afflicted with general debility, others with catarrh of the throat, indigestion, constipation, extreme nervousness, sleeplessness, loss of memory, lack of will power, mental confusion, etc. Others may suffer from heart disease, bronchial trouble, hardening of the arteries, tuberculosis, blindness or even cancer or the common affliction known as tobacco heart. If you use tobacco in any form you can easily detect the harmful effects by making the following simple tests. Read aloud one full page from a book. If, in the course of reading your voice becomes muffled, hoarse and indistinct, and you must frequently clear your throat, the chances are that your throat is affected by catarrh and it may be the beginning of more serious trouble. Next, in the morning before taking your usual smoke, walk up three flights of stair at a regular pace, then stop. If you find that you are out of breath, your heart beat is forced, trembling or irregular, you may be a victim of functional or organic heart trouble. If you feel that you must smoke, chew or snuff to quiet your nerves you are a slave to the tobacco habit, and are positively poisoning yourself with the deadly drug, nicotine. In either case you have just two alternatives—keep on with the self-poisoning process irrespective of the dangers and suffer the consequences, or give up the habit and escape the dangers. You can overcome the craving and stop the habit in a very short time by using the following inexpensive formula. Go to any drug store and ask for Nicotol tablets, take one tablet after each meal, and in a comparatively short time you will have no desire for tobacco, the craving will have left you. With the nicotine poison out of your system your general health will quickly improve.

NOTE: When asked about Nicotol tablets, one of our leading druggists said: "It is truly a wonderful remedy for the tobacco habit; away ahead of anything we have ever sold before. We are authorized by the manufacturers to refund the money to every dissatisfied customer, and we would not permit the use of our name unless the remedy possessed unusual merit." Nicotol tablets are sold in this city under an iron-clad money-back guarantee by all up-to-date druggists, including T. J. Evans.

PIONEER TELLS OF HARDSHIPS IN LIVES OF EARLY SETTLERS IN VILLAGE

Frontier Life Was Filled With Hard Work and Little Recreation, George T. Jones, Veteran Merchant Declares—Cost of Living Caused Little Worry 80 Years Ago.

George T. Jones, for 85 years a resident of Granville, has been long identified with the hardware store of Jones and Van Vortals. His father and mother came from Wales. After they reached America they stayed in Philadelphia three years, and then when Mr. Jones was only one year old, they brought their family to Granville. As there were no railroads at the time they had to come in prairie schooners, and were three weeks on the way.

At that time snakes were very numerous, and during the winter they remained underground. When a great number of them were together they created enough heat to melt the snow on the ground over them. In that way, the men who were hunting snakes, would know where to look. The object of the hunt was to kill as many snakes as possible, and the party that killed the most snakes was treated to whiskey by the other men. "However," said Mr. Jones, "whiskey didn't cost so much as it does now."

The H. C. of L. didn't trouble anyone then. Wild hogs roamed about in the woods, and belonged to anyone who was willing to shoot them. Pork was sold at a cent and a half a pound net and eight or ten dollars was a good price for a young steer.

The main forms of amusement were husking and paring apples. When the corn was brought in and the apples were gathered, the neighbors were invited to spend the evening husking corn and paring apples.

"But we didn't have much time for recreation," continued Mr. Jones. "There was a great deal of hard work to do, and the women had as large a share of it as the men. Trees had to be felled before the ground could be made ready for farming. Even after the crops were grown, the methods of gathering them were so slow that much more work was required than is now."

In about 1850 a canal was built from Cleveland to Portsmouth. This allowed an exportation of the crops that were abundant. They were sent down the Ohio River and then down the Mississippi to New Orleans. After the canal was built, cotton and woolen material and clothes were shipped from New York. Before this, all the spinning and weaving had been done at home.

Mr. Jones smiled as he recounted the following story: "I remember one whole summer that I helped my sisters weave enough material for our winter clothes. We took it to a little place east of Granville to have it dyed, but we never got it back. The dye mills had been partially burned and our material was burned with it. That winter my brothers and I had to wear suits made from black and red striped cloth that had been meant for dresses and my sisters had to wear calico all winter."

Granville was surveyed in 1850 for a railroad that was to come through from Columbus. However, about 12 miles west of Granville there is a hill called the Summit that was too high to permit, so a railroad has not yet been built.

Even the church services were different then. On Sunday mornings the people would come in to church from the surrounding country in their wagons. Church services were held first and Sunday-school followed. After Sunday-school, the people went out to their wagons and ate their lunches, which they always brought with them. After this there was another church service, that lasted until the early part of the afternoon. The first church that the people used, stood where Granville's Opera House is now.

"Often when I am walking along Broadway," said Mr. Jones, "I stop and think just how it looked almost 80 years ago, and it surely is interesting to note that it has changed in almost every respect. Where there were woods once there are houses and stores now. But," he continued, "the people of Granville, although they have grown in sympathy with the times, they have always been the same type. They have always been energetic and progressive people, and at a time when only the most practical things were emphasized, they never failed to take care of their spiritual development and their appreciation of education."

The last thing that Mr. Jones would tell to an interviewer even if he recalled it in his own mind, would be the place he always has held in the village annals as one of the most generous and hospitable of hosts. The family mansion in East Elm street which at the time it was built, seemed of almost baronial dimensions, has been the scene of many delightful gatherings, both in

MASQUERS ARE PREPARING PLAY

The Masquers are getting ready for the dress rehearsal of the Bernard Shaw play, "You Never Can Tell," to be presented on Thursday and Saturday before the opening of the new season. The play will be presented from Columbus, as the deal to have new scenery installed, was halted at the request of Director K. H. Eschman of the Conservatory who desires to have a hand in its selection. The cast is an exceptionally strong one and the play itself one of the best—so that anticipation runs high—and seats are going fast.

OPEN MISSIONARY COTTAGE FRIDAY

Former Home of Mrs. Helen Hunt Will Provide Place For Returned Missionaries As Memorial to W. H. Doane.

Three o'clock Friday afternoon is the time set for the formal opening of the Doane cottage for returned missionaries. This is the former home of Mrs. Helen Hunt in Park Drive purchased for occupancy and completely equipped for occupancy and the public is invited to inspect the arrangements.

The house which is commodious is rendered more pleasant by the addition of the property of the adjoining lot on which formerly stood the Sigma Delta Phi Sorority house to be laid in flower and vegetable gardens. The interior is attractively and completely equipped for occupancy and the public is invited to inspect the arrangements.

There will be a brief dedicatory service, consisting of a talk by Rev. C. E. Stanton, explaining the object and purpose of the cottage to be filled by the gift, a hymn of dedication composed and read by Rev. T. G. Field and afterward to be sung by a quartet led by Mrs. Theodore Johnson and a prayer by Rev. T. F. Cham. The afternoon tea will be served by the ladies of the board of the Fanny Doane home: Miss Charlotte Clark, chairman, Mrs. C. J. Rose, Mrs. E. E. Hopkins, Mrs. C. E. Stanton, Mrs. T. G. Field, Mrs. K. S. Hines, Miss Clara Davies of Newark and Mrs. Helen M. Frye of Zanesville. The first occupants of the cottage will be Rev. and Mrs. Henry Thompson of Newark, and their son William a student of Denison University.

LIBRARY ISSUES 855 BOOKS IN FEBRUARY

Miss Grace Chamberlain librarian of the Granville public library reports that during last month the library was open 19 days, that there were 1294 patrons; that 855 books went out, averaging 45 books a day. The number of volumes in the library is 4285; the number of patrons registered is 956. Great improvement in lighting has made the room more comfortable for readers of periodicals and reference books.

AMERICANISM OF TWO GOVERNORS CONTRASTED

At the hospitable board of a Granville host the other evening one of the subjects which came up for discussion was the defiance of law shown by two of the states in respect of the prohibition amendment. Contrasting the conduct of New Jersey's governor with that of another state, Dr. W. C. Ebaugh, professor of chemistry in Denison university, who during the war was one of the big men in Council of Defense work in Utah, gave this testimony in praise of the chief executive of that state:

"The governor of Utah said to me: 'Professor Ebaugh, I am of German parentage; beer and wine have been as common in my family as food itself. Nevertheless I should hate to feel that I was dependent on them. If I found that to be the case I should thank any one to take them from me. There are thousands who have formed habits of drink that are ruining them. The majority have voted to take it from them. Therefore in order to remove from them what has done them no good, we shall try enforcement of the law.'"

"The state not only does not resent this enforcement but the people have almost forgotten conditions as they existed in Utah under the system of the open saloon," said Dr. Ebaugh.

URNS HIS CAR 47,000 TIMES

Veteran Ohio Electric Car Man Has Record of 13 Years' Service On Granville Line As Motorman.

After having turned his car on the Granville "Y" approximately 47,000 times, Harry E. Collins, motorman on the Newark and Granville division of the Ohio Electric railway, can tell much of the history of the countryside through which he has been passing for the last 13 years. He has run cars between Newark and Granville for 13 years and the city of Newark for five years, making the record of 18 years of service.

There have been no wrecks of a serious nature on the Granville division during the entire 18 years of Collins' experience with the interurban, a fact which does him credit as a motorman. A few years ago there were four separate lines of communication within a city's limits, and each of them, a short distance west of Central City where the interurban, the Toledo and Ohio Central railway, a highway and an old canal all passed through the same narrow valley. The canal connected Granville with the Ohio canal at Newark and was fed by the waters of Raccoon creek.

The original interurban line between Granville and Newark was the first electric road in the United States to carry the mails. It was also the first to connect two towns. The road bed was first laid by a private individual, Reinhardt Scheidler of Newark. It is said that one time as Scheidler was holding a mass meeting in Granville to arouse interest in his project, he made the remark that country people from miles around would come to Granville, board the car and go to Newark to do their trading. Quickly realizing that he had made the wrong impression on the business men of Granville, he added in the same sentence, "and what they forget to buy in Newark they will buy in Granville."

The new line proved an entire success from a financial standpoint, and was purchased after a time by a Boston firm. After a time the Ohio Electric railway extended its lines through central Ohio and the line was merged with the main road running from Dayton to Zanesville.

Y. W. C. A. FUND IS OVER QUOTA

Granville Committee Sends $187 to District Chairman On Quota of $150 — Teams Finish Work.

The recent drive for funds for the New World Movement of the Y. W. C. A. which was undertaken by Mrs. E. C. Johnson as district chairman, has resulted in Granville's going over the top once more. KNOWS MUSIC AS WELL AS PLANTS

Professor of Botany is Active in Musical Circles in Village—Heads Festival Association.

Malcolm E. Stickney, professor of botany in Denison university, who ranks third in term of service in the institution, is a trained musician, who is able to devote much time outside the demands of his department at work to promoting musical interests in Granville. He has served the Festival Association since 1915 and Sinfonia the men's musical fraternity of Denison in the same capacity. He is the first tenor in the faculty quartet, and cheerfully contributes his services in like capacity wherever needed.

The closing of a most successful season of the Musical Festival season recalls to mind the first Festival held in Granville in 1905 with the Cincinnati Symphony Orchestra as chief attraction. This was a three-day festival held in the Baptist church. The schools and college were granted a half holiday and visitors were present from neighboring towns. The advance sale of seats revived all records, and a raised platform was placed in the lecture room of the church seating about 200.

The season of 1906 repeated the success, with the Cincinnati Symphony again the attraction. In 1907 the Pittsburgh Orchestra was secured, and in no case was there a deficit although expenses were high and prices of admission low.

The departure of Director and President A. L. Judson for New York in 1908, the management of the association was turned over to the Denison Conservatory. In 1915 interest was again revived, representatives of all musical organizations in the village met and elected M. E. Stickney president, and K. H. Eschman director. A symphony orchestra has been organized, and until this year, when the five artists' concerts were decided on to be distributed through five months of the winter, instead of being presented in a three days' festival as in the beginning.

Trustees for the season just closed were: J. C. Campbell, C. W. Chamberlain, J. C. White, J. A. Huston, J. S. Jones and C. B. White. Patrons were: Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Campbell, Mr. and Mrs. Burton Case, Mr. and Mrs. K. H. Eschman, Mr. and Mrs. J. C. White, Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Huston, Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Jones, Mr. and Mrs. Frank A. Fay, Mr. Frank Robinson, Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Slack, Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Tanner, Mr. and Mrs. W. P. Ullman.

Officers of the association: M. E. Stickney, president; Mrs. J. S. Jones, vice president; Mrs. Burton Case, secretary; Mrs. J. C. White, treasurer; Mr. Frank S. Robinson, auditor; Mrs. T. S. Johnson, membership committee; Mr. Alva Shumaker, membership committee; Mr. W. C. Ebaugh, business manager; F. G. Detweiler, assistant business manager.

The season has closed not only with no deficit facing the trustees, but with that of preceding seasons lifted and 80% of the expense of "The Messiah" concert paid by the association. Plans for next year are already on foot, and patrons of music may expect even greater attractions.

CLEVELAND MAN BUYS GRANVILLE GROCERY

Arthur Morris, successor to Wm. But in the grocery business is Granville's latest acquisition in the way of a resident. In order to meet his mother Mrs. H. C. Morris, who prefers Granville to Cleveland, Mr. Morris gave up a good business in the "Sixth City" and bought the grocery stock in the Jones block. He is unmarried and will make his home with his mother at the corner of Grand and Summit streets.

HERE AND THERE IN THE VILLAGE

The executive committee of the Ladies Aid of the Presbyterian church will meet Friday afternoon in the church parlors at 2:30.

The adjourned meeting of the village council will be held Thursday (tomorrow) evening, the order of business being the discussion of the electric franchise and the explanation of the terms and rates of service by Mr. Beadle of the Central Light and Power company. Much interest is felt in the outcome as there has been a wide spread demand for the utility.

Mrs. John Raine who has been visiting at the home of her brother Dr. L. E. Davis for several weeks has returned to her home in Rainelle, W. Va., accompanied by her husband, who with their son, a student in O. S. U. spent the week-end at the Davis home.

To date a careful marked calendar for March shows that the sun has shone every day this month if only for an hour or two.

A miscellaneous shower was given for Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Bash, Monday evening at the home of his uncle, George Bash in Sunrise street. Bash was assisted by his daughter, Mrs. Charles Williams. Entertainment was furnished for the thirty guests present by Harry Bolen. Many beautiful and well given gifts among the offerings. The hour guests have but recently returned from England where the young husband was an army officer.

Mrs. T. F. Chambers will lead the midweek prayer service in the Baptist church, Thursday evening at 7 o'clock. The book of Acts of the Apostles will furnish texts for those taking part. At 8 o'clock the church will hold a business meeting for the purpose of considering a pastor.

Special meetings in the Baptist church will begin April 7, conducted by Rev. Joseph A. Bennett, D. D. formerly pastor of the First Baptist church of Newark.

Phi Gamma Delta will entertain on Saturday evening with a formal dinner, preceding the play by the Masquers in Recital hall. Reservations have been made for the entire party.

At the meeting of the community federation Tuesday afternoon, the president, Mrs. Stickney, read a letter received from Mrs. Ernest Johnson of Newark inviting the Granville women to a play to be given by the Monday Talks for the benefit of the Newark Library on Thursday evening, March 18.

Announcement also was made of the lecture recital to be given on March 24, by Professor John A. Lomax of Austin, Texas, a scholar of national reputation. His collection of cowboy ballads and songs, gathered from the lips of the cowpunchers themselves along the cattle trails and in their camps is highly recommended by Professor Kittredge of Harvard. Professor William Lyon Phelps of Yale and others. He comes to Denison under the auspices of the Denison Scientific association.

The death of Ralph Tucker, formerly of Newark recalls the fact that he was at one time a student in Denison university and a member of Phi Gamma Delta fraternity.

Mrs. A. E. Conklin fell on the ice last evening and is suffering from a sprained ankle.

President C. W. Chamberlain, who is in Chicago on official business connected with the work of the Northern Ohio convention, expects to return Thursday.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Thompson have returned home from a prolonged visit in Elora, Indiana.

Miss Helen Ackley, who has been ill for a week with the flu, is reported as somewhat improved.

Dr. C. J. Loveless reports that health conditions in Granville have improved, but that in the country districts they remain about the same.

W. C. T. U. PROGRAM IS GIVEN BY FEDERATION

At the meeting of the Community federation Tuesday afternoon, a capacity audience attested the interest felt in the afternoon's program: election of officers of the federation and a special program of the W. C. T. U. although somewhat crowded by the annual business session. Mrs. John McClain, president of the W. C. T. U. announced the program as prepared. A song composed by the National W. C. T. U. president, entitled "Sound the Jubilee" was sung by a quartet composed of Mrs. Roe Morrow, Miss Reba Jury, Messrs Guy Case and Kenneth Ullman, accompanied by Mrs. J. H. Watson. Mrs. Van Kirk, before giving her brief history of the organization introduced the county president Mrs. Lucy Simpson of Newark who made a few remarks. Mrs. Van Kirk reviewed the work of the women in Ohio from the days of the women's crusade which was called "The Whirlwind of the Lord." Three cities compete for the honor of having initiated this campaign. Hillsboro, Washington C. H. and Springfield. The national campaign by women started in Cleveland in 1874, by Miss Frances E. Willard at a time when such leadership was most unpopular. The work has always been educational as well as religious. A piano duet, "The Overture of Geneva" played by Mrs. Watson and Miss Eva Wright was followed by "The Story of the Three Weavers" by Mrs. Benjamin Wolf of Newark.

The election resulted in returning Mrs. M. E. Stickney as president; Mrs. J. D. Thompson vice-president; Mrs. A. P. Nichol secretary; Mrs. James A. H. and treasurer; Mrs. G. E. Jones corresponding secretary; Mrs. John Geach library committee; Mrs. Burton Case press committee. Other committees were deferred until the next meeting as there were no majorities declared and the time limit had been passed.

LISTLESS PEOPLE SELDOM POPULAR

You Can't Attract Friends When You're Feeling Dull and Despondent.

Popularity Goes to the Red-Blooded

Pepto-Mangan Brings Vigor, Health and Happiness to Anemic Persons

When you're feeling your best—when you're brimming with happiness, "pep" and enthusiasm—people just can't help being drawn to you. You're a favorite wherever you go.

But when you're constantly tired and dull—when everything is too much trouble—when you're bored with yourself—it's natural that you affect your acquaintances likewise.

If you're not feeling up to par, you're not. If you're not sick exactly, but are just run down, what you need is a good tonic. The food you eat is not becoming energy-making, red blood.

Everyone gets run-down occasionally. But it's not necessary and is really dangerous to let this condition hang on. A bottle of Pepto-Mangan, the famous "red blood builder" would supply the iron and other properties your blood now lacks—would bring back your old-time energy and enthusiasm—would put color in your cheeks and spring in your step.

Pepto-Mangan is agreeable and convenient to take, and endorsed by physicians everywhere. Can be had in either liquid or tablet form. There's no difference in their effectiveness. Ask your druggist for Pepto-Mangan and be sure it's "Gude's"—the genuine. The name "Gude's" should be on the package.—Advertisement.

IT FELT LIKE MY BACK WOULD BREAK

Dull, aching pains over kidneys, pains in joints and muscles made life miserable for this Canton man.

The great root and herb remedy Drecto was quick in wiping away all his troubles.

"I've stayed on my job many a time with my back aching like it would break," said Mr. Clark Turner, a bricklayer who lives at 1001 Lawrence Road, Canton, O.

"I think my kidneys were at fault, but no medicine I ever took helped me much. Every turn or movement gave me pain, and bending over or lifting anything heavy was specially painful."

"I also had a bad case of stomach trouble. After eating I'd have a full, heavy feeling and would belch gas. My bowels were constipated and my liver lazy, which gave me a tired, dull feeling every morning, making me grouchy."

"I was often dizzy and could see spots dancing before my eyes. My tongue was coated and breath foul."

"After taking Drecto I am happy to report a great change in my feelings. I can eat anything I want with no fear of gas or bloating as my stomach digests anything perfectly. I know my liver has been cleaned off thoroughly for those headaches, dizzy spells, tired, dull, grouchy feeling of mornings have gone, and I get up in fresh and full of energy, ready for big work. The backache has been entirely relieved and the soreness in the joints and muscles gone. I believe in Drecto very strong, and have induced several friends to take it on account of what it did for me."

All good druggists sell Drecto and it is highly recommended in this city by Evans' Cut Rate Drug Store. 3-10-20

MUSTEROLE—QUICK RELIEF! NO BLISTER!

It Soothes and Relieves Like a Mustard Plaster Without the Burn or Sting

Musterole is a clean, white ointment, made with the oil of mustard. It does all the work of the old-fashioned mustard plaster—does it better and does not blister. You do not have to bother with a cloth. You simply rub it on—and usually the pain is gone!

Many doctors and nurses use Musterole and recommend it to their patients. They will gladly tell you what relief it gives from sore throat, bronchitis, croup, stiff neck, asthma, neuralgia, congestion, pleurisy, rheumatism, lumbago, pains and aches of the back or joints, sprains, sore muscles, bruises, chilblains, frost-bite, colds of the chest (it often prevents pneumonia).

Daily Fashion Talk By Kitty Gordon

"The crowning glory of woman is her hair, and the crowning desire of her hair is to be better. Hence the desire of every woman for hats, more hats, and still more hats. I have never known a normal woman who could resist the call of headgear. Even savages who wear almost no clothes, will adorn their heads with something, if only a bird feather, or a string of beads. Smart hats range in price these days from twenty-five dollars, up or down—usually up—but I can tell the girl with a small income how to make them for almost nothing—that is if she has the all important gift of taste or lacking that, imitation. Cloth hats which are just now much in vogue are the easiest to make and are most effective. They are usually made in the shape of toques and just now the brightest colors are fashionable. All that is required is a frame which can be bought for a few cents, a part of a yard of cloth, and either an ornament, a quill or a tassel for the side. A charming one I have just designed is of coral colored cloth wound around a frame and fitted close to the hair. On one side is thrust a gilded quill caught with an ornament of rhinestones. The effect is delightful."

"Straw hats will soon be in order, and they can be made for even less. To accomplish this go to a place where straw braid is sold by the yard, and buy enough to make a turban or big hat and having sewed the braid together in a smart shape, trim with a bow of ribbon smartly tied, or an ostrich feather which every woman has left from some other hat, and you have the effect of a hat which milliners sell for twenty-five dollars. Miss Gordon, who will be seen in person at the Auditorium next Monday."

Daily Hair Care.

The daily care of the hair is most important. It should be well brushed every night, the scalp being first treated with a rather hard brushing to stimulate the circulation. The long hair, afterward, should be brushed with a long, sweeping stroke, two brushes, with rather long, stiff bristles, being used. This will keep the hair clean and give it a natural gloss.

If the hair is in an impoverished condition, abnormally greasy or dry, showing a tendency to become brittle and to break off short and has lost its color and bulk, it will be no good to begin any hair treatment without first attending to the general state of the health.

One should take sufficient exercise and rest and correct any indiscretions in diet. Where an anemic condition exists, a tonic often accomplishes wonders as well as having a course of cod liver oil, while raw eggs and unboiled milk are articles of diet which tend to beautify the hair.

As to the general care of the hair it should be washed as often as it requires cleaning. Once a week is not too often for a very oily type of hair, and about once in four weeks is a good average for ordinary hair. If it is washed at home liquid soap is the best to use. The hair should be thoroughly wet with warm water and then a handful of the soap rubbed in. If it does not lather at once use a little more water and a little more liquid until the whole head is in a perfect foam. Then rinse the hair very thoroughly, taking most of the moisture out with hot towels. Dry by brushing and fanning. Do not dry by a fire.

REMEMBER THE "WHY?"

Editor of the Advocate—I notice in your issue of March 7, "Do you remember Ike Samuels?" I presume quite a few people in Newark will remember the man and the place. I have been in Muncie the best town in Indiana, since 1902. Often I think of Newark and often get the Advocate from there and I never shall forget the good times and the nice people of Newark.

I am coming out on a visit in a few weeks which will be the first time in more than 25 years. I lost my wife a year ago and cut the following clipping from the Muncie Morning Star, which I would like to have you reproduce in the Advocate. With best wishes to all I am yours truly,

KE A. SAMUELS.

Everyday Etiquette

"Will you tell me if it is proper to give a clergyman a fee for performing ones child, and when should the fee be given to him?" asked Mr. Newley-wed.

"Unless the clergyman is a relative or an intimate friend its quite proper, but not compulsory, to send him a fee a short time after the day of the ceremony," said his experienced friend.

MU-COL REPLACES ALCOHOL

The high cost of Alcohol today makes its use practically prohibitive for general bathing purposes and to reduce fever in severe illness.

MU-COL replaces Alcohol in the sick room at trifling cost, quickly reducing the temperature, and cooling the skin. It at once affords prompt relief from any soreness or discomfort as a result of being confined to bed and minimizes the danger of the patient contracting pneumonia.

People who have been accustomed to the invigorating effect of an alcohol rub should try a MU-COL sponge bath. They will be delighted to find how completely it takes its place.
